

- Web based light weight and completely configurable solution to calculate cost of a part/system based on specifications
- Store the information as a knowledgebase and rerun the calculation to find out the cost change.
- In build mechanism for security control